OVERVIEW

MISSION

Transitional Services is a section within the Georgia Department of Corrections charged with the primary purpose to promote public safety through collaborative partnerships supporting offender placement into evidence-based interventions which reflect a seamless system of reentry assisting returning offenders to be law-abiding, productive community citizens. Transitional Services provides standardized Reentry Services Protocols that permeate all levels of affected agencies and organizations to reduce recidivism. Offender reentry planning and preparation begins when the offender is initially received by the Georgia Department of Corrections and is an on-going and dynamic endeavor that continues through the offender's release from custody and transition to the community. Reentry provides effective opportunities for offenders to achieve positive change and to be a more pro-social contributor to society.

GOALS

- To prepare and build individual capacity of the offender to be a productive member of his/her family and community
- To link offenders to internal and external program services necessary for successful transition and reentry into the community
- To increase the community and correctional capacity to address the offender's needs and identify community resources to match assessed needs
- To enhance public safety by reducing recidivism among the formerly incarcerated population
- To promote public safety through collaborative state agency and community partnerships that support offender transition to the community
- To optimize the services provided with external stakeholders and service providers to impact reduction on return admissions to jails, prisons and community supervision to promote Justice Reinvestment
